

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A recording apparatus for a write-once and/or re-recordable optical recording medium includes a discriminator for discriminating a recording position information from the 5 optical recording medium; a detector for detecting a deviation between the address information recorded in the recording medium and the recording position information; and a controller for controlling the recording position of a data signal including address information based on the 10 deviation while recording the data signal.